Traditions . . .

Traditions are the product of people. Generations of alumni have shaped the spirit which is Stanislaus. The students of '84 continue to build upon 130 years of tradition through their unique talents and contributions. The following pages are an attempt to visualize that spirit which is SSC.

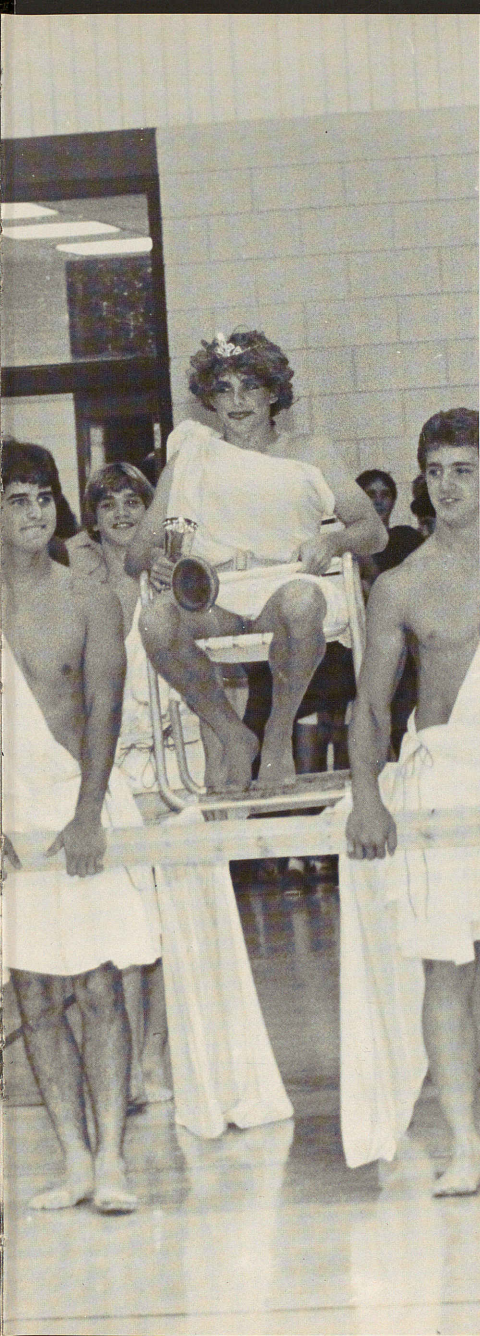

A tradition, like a fine wine, is refined with age. Improved as each year passes. Traditions at St. Stanislaus not only improve upon themselves with each progressing year, but also augment and enhance the school program itself.

What, specifically, is the purpose of traditions? To provide continuity of custom, to provide transition from one year to the next. Traditions also provide a common ground upon which all alumni can meet, "I'll never forget my ring ceremony. The rings were out of order and everyone received someone else's ring. But before we left the chapel, everyone had his own ring!"

Just as each person's heritage contains some personal insight, the traditions of the St. Stanislaus family reflect the beliefs and tenets of the Brothers, faculty, and students of St. Stanislaus. From the night of the ring ceremony to Graduation Day, our traditions are with us, helping us create the everyday school environment rich in every way.

Below: Straining in the Tug-of-War, Steve Smith donned his Hippie regalia for the Homecoming Pep Rally. Bottom: "R" is for Robert, Robert Peranich that is. The Homecoming Parade was a huge success due to the efforts of Robert and the other Seniors.

Many of our traditions were born of necessity, while others were established by popularity. Homecoming provides our alumni a chance to return home and reacquaint themselves. The alumni reunion serves the same purpose. On the other hand, the Freshman Dorm's Annual Halloween Haunted House occurs each year only because of its popularity.

Opposite Page: First Friday masses are one of the oldest traditions of St. Stanislaus. The first Friday of every month is dedicated to the Virgin Mary by the Brothers of the Sacred Heart. Here Brother Carl serves communion to Jesus Martinez. This Page, Below: Grimacing in pain, Charles Schull endures. Darrin Scarborough, Senior, offers support. Bottom: Another form of support is shown by the Sophomore class during the Homecoming Pep Rally.

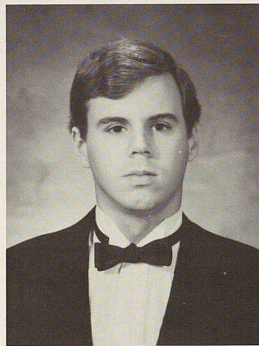

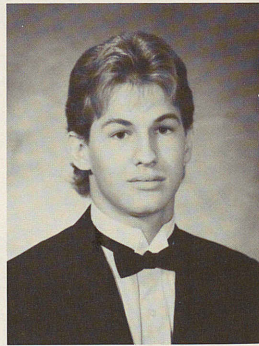

Top: The position of Student Council President is a tremendous chore, but Senior Ronnie Artigues handled it with ease and aplomb. Above: Participation in Intramural sports, while nonmandatory, lures many excellent athletes into the limelight. Here Senior Tom Helm makes an end sweep. Left: Packing for the long trip home before the holidays can be a tight squeeze but Tony Bowman and Chris Landry made it.

FEATURES...

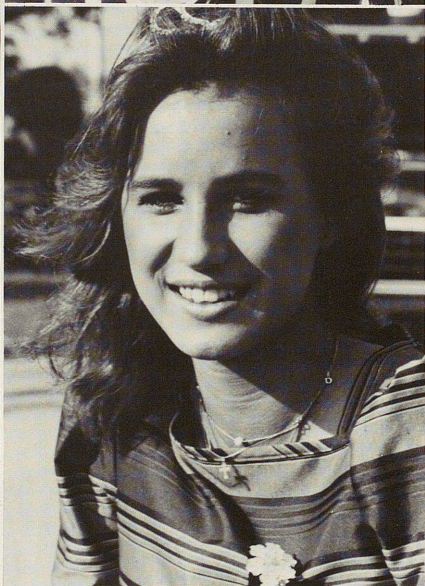

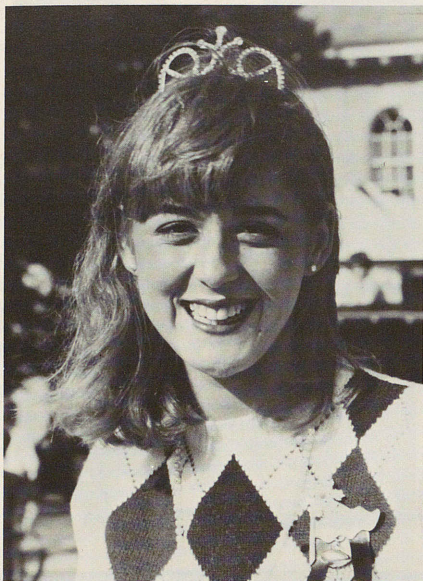

The Brothers . . .

Mention St. Stanislaus, and the image of the Brothers of the Sacred Heart immediately comes to mind. Arriving in Bay St. Louis in 1854, the Brothers established a tradition of discipline, christian education, and concern for students which has continued through the years. Although the number of Brothers actively engaged in teaching has diminished, their influence throughout the school is quite evident. Presently, 41 Brothers reside at St. Stanislaus working as administrators, prefects, teachers, and maintenance personnel.

The night was clear, the alumni were home again, their spirits high ... it's Homecoming Weekend! Ole grads, incoming Freshmen, all mingled and relived memories of a past gone by. Each year it occurs, and each year it seems to get better. Beginning Thursday afternoon with the Parade, then continuing into the night with the big Pep Rally, Homecoming culminates Saturday night with the Homecoming Dance. Not, however, before the alumni arrive Friday afternoon for the alumni cocktail party followed by the football game Friday night. Then each turns to go with the promise to return the next year. And they do!!

Cheerleaders, '84

Inasmuch as the cheerleaders are in the public eye, their selection is of utmost importance. Brother Aquin, S.C., Cheerleader Moderator, has seen to it that the SSC Cheerleading squad is the most personable representative on campus. Those individuals finally selected for the positions on the squad can truly be said to be the real "Rock-a-chaws."

Project Do — a Tradition of Love

"Find a need and fill it." Project Do, under the direction of Brother Canisius, follows this simple formula to obtain a spirit of personal fulfillment. Over 100 volunteers have given of their time each week to visit with the elderly at two nursing centers and to tutor little children at two day care centers.

There is no payment or reward other than the very rich enrichment of the love and caring shown by each and every volunteer.

The St. Stanislaus Weight Lifting Club offers its members many advantages. Begun as a small program in 1969, it was gradually nurtured into a superior weight lifting gym by Brother Bennet, S.C. This non-credit extracurricular activity is very popular with the students at St. Stanislaus.

The weight training section consists of over 30 separate body building devices. The advanced equipment is supervised by Brother Bennet. The program increases one's athletic excellence, confidence, stature, and an overall well-being. The weight training section at St. Stanislaus is a positive reflection of our school and its student body.

French and Spanish Honor Societies

Société Honoraire de Français:

The St. Stanislaus chapter of the Société Honoraire de Français was founded in 1975 by Fr. Gerhardt Vogel. The next moderator was Brother Albert Guarino. Mrs. Currie became Moderator in 1982.

The purpose of the honor society is to promote interest in French, and to honor those who have excelled in French studies. By taking part in French activities, those of us who cannot continue a formal study of the language, can at least continue our interest and keep abreast of what is happening in another culture.

Students are selected for membership on the basis of grades — nothing lower than a B in French, and the last three honor rolls before the selection is made — and on the basis of interest, application, and leadership.

La Sociedad Honoraria Hispánica:

The Gayoso chapter at St. Stanislaus was organized in 1971 by Brother Eduardo Baldioceda. In 1972, Mrs. Currie took over as moderator. The purpose is to stimulate interest in the Spanish language and people, and to recognize high achievement in the study of the language.

Students are eligible for membership who are members of the advanced Spanish classes, who have studied Spanish for at least three semesters, having attained A or B each semester, and having attained honor roll for the previous three quarters.

In addition to recognizing academic achievement of Spanish students, this organization forms a nucleus within the student body that helps to foster interest among students in the Spanish courses that are offered, and thus awaken the entire student body to the benefits to be gained from the study of a foreign language and a knowledge of other cultures.

Boy Scouts, a Timely Tradition

Boy Scout Troop 86

Chartered in 1979, Troop 86 has developed into one of the finest troops in the New Orleans Area Council. The key to our troop's success is ACTION!

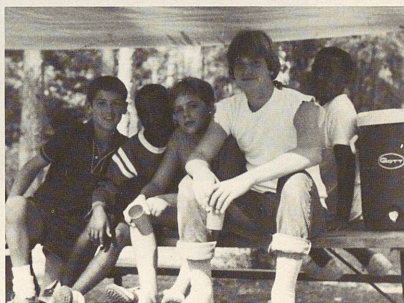

Weekly troop meetings and monthly outings provide scouts with many opportunities to learn and apply skills, develop leadership qualities, and have FUN!

The highlight of this year's activities will be an eight day summer trip to Opryland, U.S.A. and the Great Smoky Mountain National Park. Brother Dwight, Scoutmaster, hopes that our troop program will achieve scouting's three aims: Character, Citizenship, and Fitness.

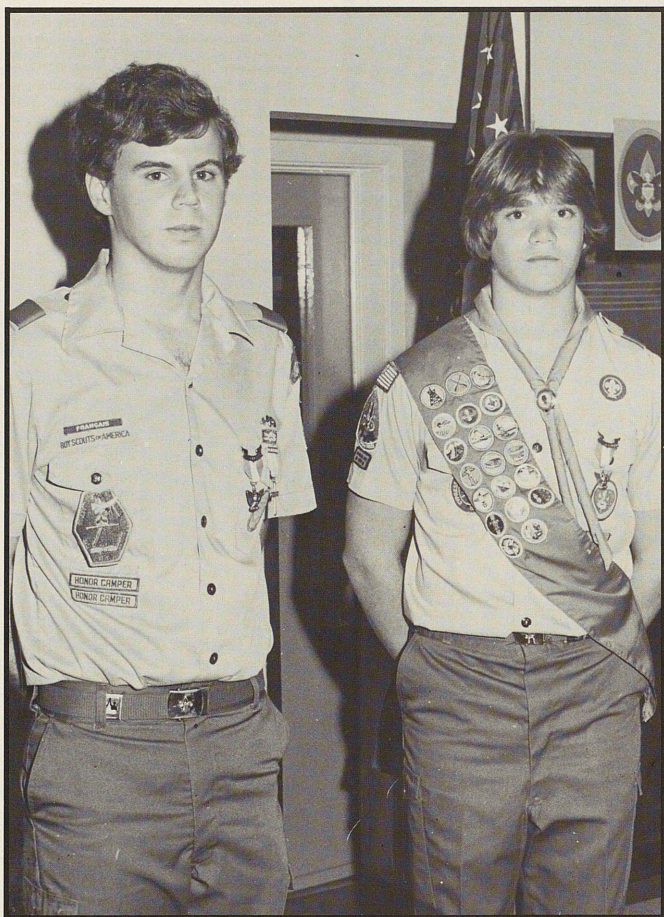

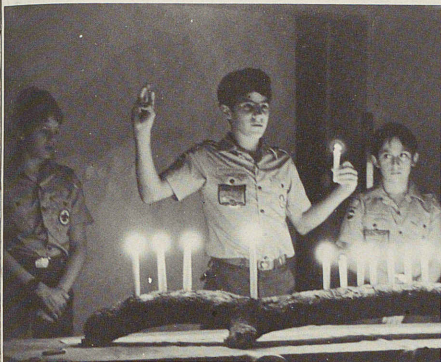

OPPOSITE PAGE, TOP: No, that's not Crazy Horse. Actually, it's close though. Eagle Scout Joey Reith is bedecked in his Indian regalia for the Summer Camporee Bonfire. Drama Club

The highlight of the year for the Drama Club was the presentation of "Get Bill Shakespeare off the Stage" which played to packed houses for two performances. The audience, along with the actors, were pleasantly surprised to discover that Shakespeare might still have something to say even today.

Prep Quiz Bowl

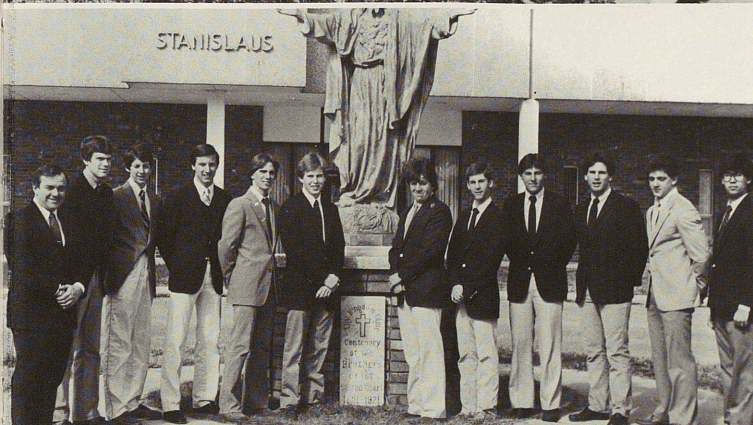

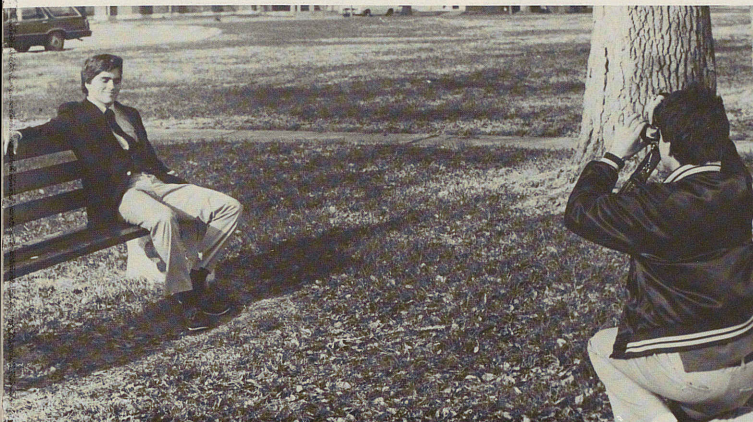

Maintaining their sense of humor, this year's Prep Quiz Bowl Team traveled to New Orleans to compete. The team consisted of Mike Doyle, Chris Darling, Ed Dunn, Russ Betcher and Mark Wheeler, alternate. Brother William Leimbach moderated. The trip back proved to be much as the bus ran out of gas. On the second round of competition so did our team, losing to a very good Jesuit High team.

Reflections '84

Reflections is the instrument that is able to carry tradition through the years for the graduates and even underclassmen remembering the hard work of the past year.

Anywhere, the making of a yearbook has many traditions. A few of the main ones would be the dreaded deadlines, the long hours of editing, and the perfection of darkroom work. Then at the end of the year, one's work pays off, and one can see the jungle of paper and photographs fall into place forming an eternal annual.

Rockachaw Band

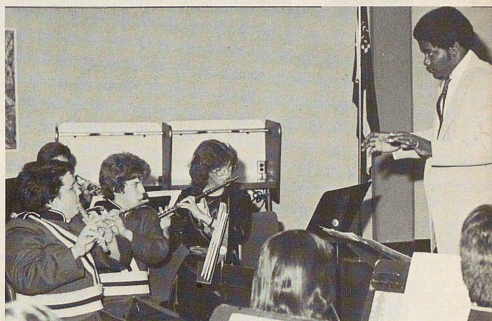

The 1983-84 year was a year of rebuilding for the band. Some of the highlights for the year were: attendance at the second annual Old South Open Marching Contest in Milton, Florida; Nereids Parade; and the St. Patrick's Day Parade in Waveland.

In Milton, the band, drum line, and drum major received excellent ratings, while the flag line received a superior rating. At the Nereids Mardi Gras Parade, in Waveland, the band came in second, and at the St. Patrick's Day Parade tied for first.

Some individual projects were Gulf Coast Band Clinic, Delta State Band Clinic, Lumberton Band Clinic, USM Band Clinic, Jr. High and Sr. High Solo Ensemble, and the Mississippi Lions All-State Band.

Next year the band looks forward to new shows, greater competition and a better year all around.

Brothers Entertain at Prom

The smell of corsages, the guys in tuxedos, the girls in formals, it must be Prom time. And a great time it was. The band, The Brothers, played and everyone enjoyed. Michael White even got into the act and sang for the crowd. Another successful prom was held with enjoyment.

Skyhawks '84

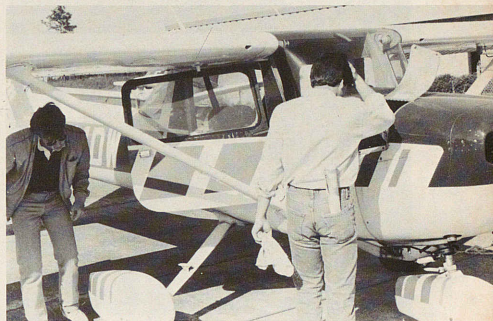

Being one of the newest traditions, Skyhawks provide those with spirit of conquering to learn the careful and serious ability to fly. One of the biggest traditions among aviators is the exhilarating feeling of the 'first-solo.' The first time one completely takes command of the airways. In acknowledgment of such an accomplishment, one "donates" the back of the shirt used for the solo to be added to the collection on the wall of the aviation classroom. One can look up at the wall everyday and feel a sense of pride.

The main goal of such a program after "first-solo" accomplishments is to obtain the certification as Private Pilot. Then one is really part of the pilot body of the United States and the world. What more can one ask of a high school course?

Rocks Split Season

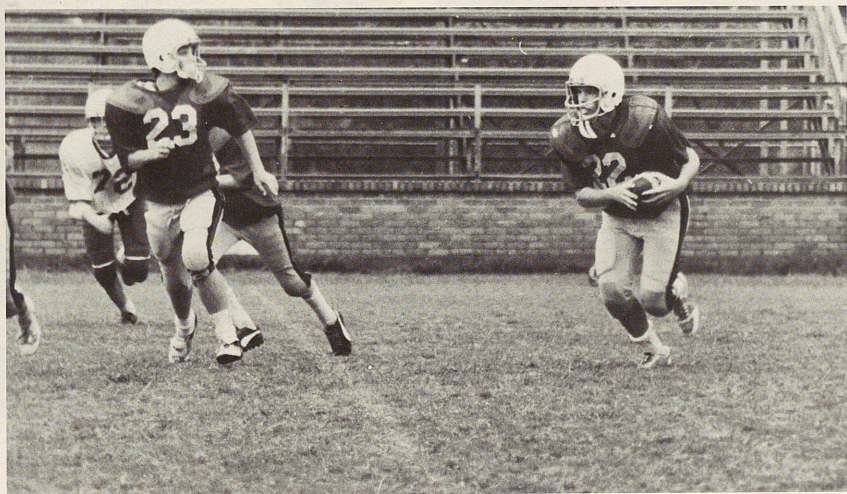

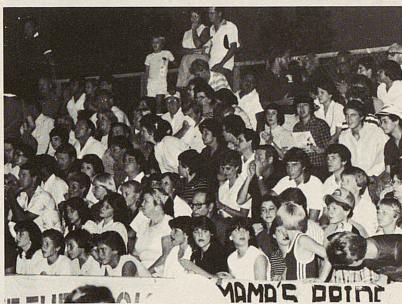

Utilizing the advantage of returning starters, the Rocks of '84 were a vast improvement over the previous year. However, mental lapses caused many costly errors, thereby costing several wins. At several points throughout the season the Rocks could have very easily given in to pressure, but managed to hold their heads above water and pull it out. The win-loss record this year was 4-6.

Looking to next year, once again many starters will be returning, but it remains to be seen as to whether this advantage can be fully implemented or not. The talent is there, the skill is there, the coaching is there, but is the hunger, the desire, the taste of victory. Only time will tell.

Geroux Leads Rocks

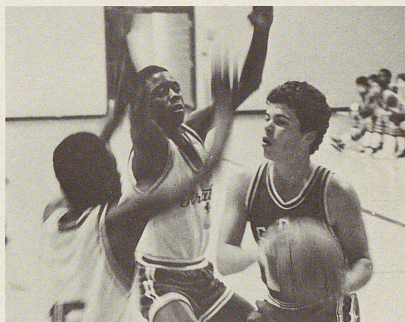

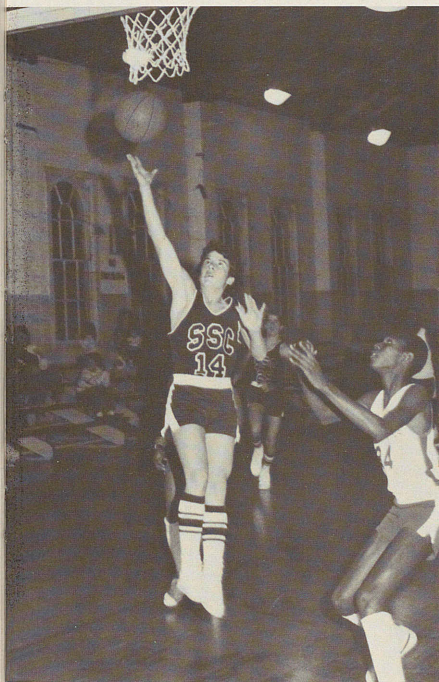

The 1983-84 basketball season of the Rock-a-chaws was one of hard work and learning. Brother Anton did an admirable job in his first year as head coach leading the Rocks to a 9-12 record.

Key injuries to starters Pat Cilurso and Matt Rosetti hindered the Rocks' bid for a winning season. The rest of the starting line-up consisted of juniors Jim Bass and Dean Disalvo. Kris Geroux, the only Senior on the ball team, supplied the team with excellent leadership, leading the team in scoring and steals. The starting five were backed up effectively by sophomores Brian Arceneaux, Jim Maxey and Tom Walton. The basketball team still had one bright spot, winning the Gulf Coast Catholic Tournament by defeating St. John, Mercy Cross, and Our Lady of Victories.

Next year promises to be one of many good seasons to come for the Rock-a-chaw basketball program.

Artigues Leads Sluggers

This year's Rocks have been an example of hard luck. The Rocks record, though respectable, could have been excellent if the breaks had only fallen their way on a few occasions. The entire Rocks team and the fine coaching staff should be congratulated on their honest effort and marked improvement. By no stretch of the imagination can anyone call this team anything but winners.

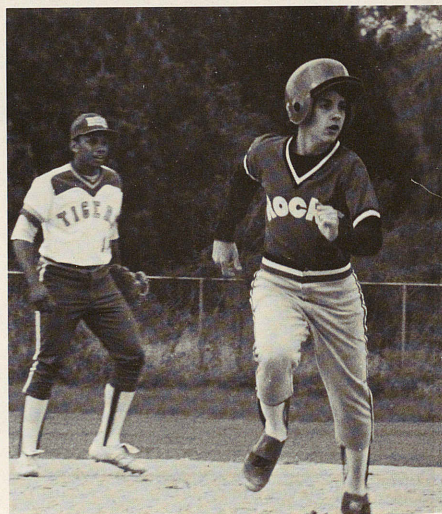

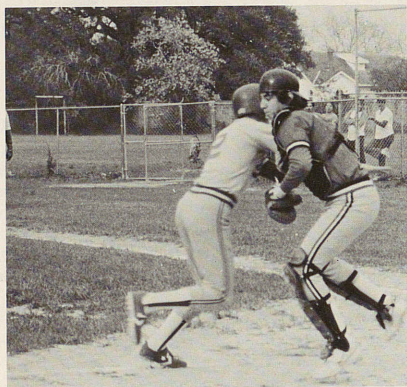

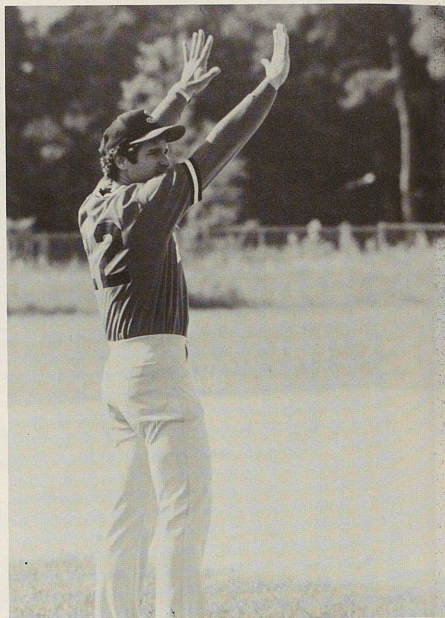

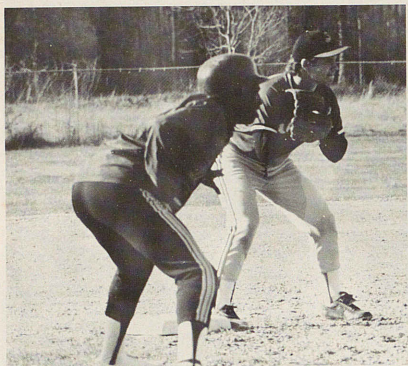

Offensively Chris Darling and Ronnie Artigues led the way with averages of .381 and .323 respectively. There was no MVP of the Rocks because every starter performed admirably. Other offensive standouts were K. C. Wittmann, Mark Logan, Matt Rosetti, who had many key RBI's, and David Pitolo, who consistently produced runs.

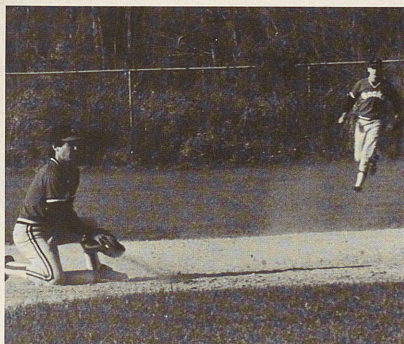

At all the defensive positions there was solid play, especially behind the plate where the catching was shared by John Henry and Mark Logan. One of the key outfielders was Robert Peranich who made many throws to cut down runners at the plate. The Rocks also had good leadership from Ronnie Artigues and all the seniors. The Rocks should be proud of their fine season.

Young Leads Thinclads

The 1983-84 track season was an eventful one. Beginning in mid-February, the Rock-a-chaw thinclads continued running through March and into April.

Although the team was young, with three sophomores in each relay, the Rocks never gave up. The highlight of the season came when the Rocks placed third in our first annual St. Stanislaus Invitational. Vance Young, Senior Pole Vaulter, competed in District and went on to compete in South State where he placed third. Then he competed in State.

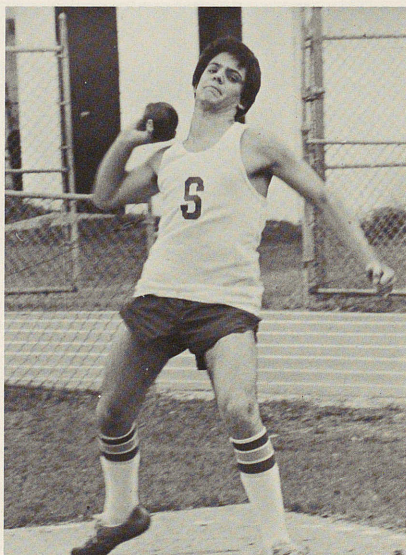

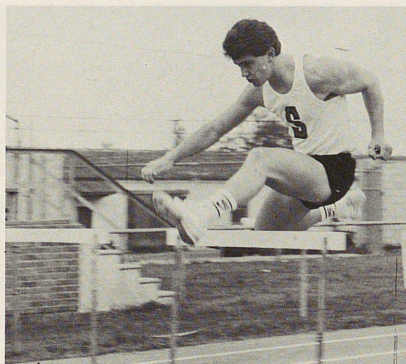

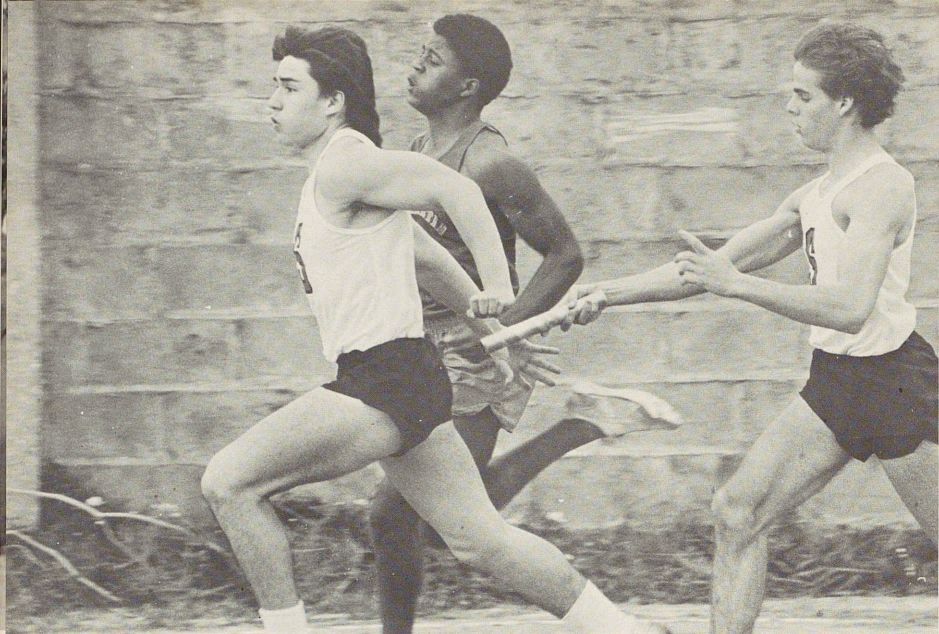

The SSC track program has been making steady strides under Coaches Vernon Powell and Jerry Spell and the future definitely looks bright.

Betcher Leads Rocks

For the second consecutive year the St. Stanislaus Tennis Team turned in a strong, winning season. The SSC squad defeated teams from Mercy Cross, O.L.V., Bay High, Harrison Central, Moss Point, and several other opponents. The Rock-a-chaws, coupled with the O.L.A. crescents, also snapped the St. John Eagles 25 match winning streak.

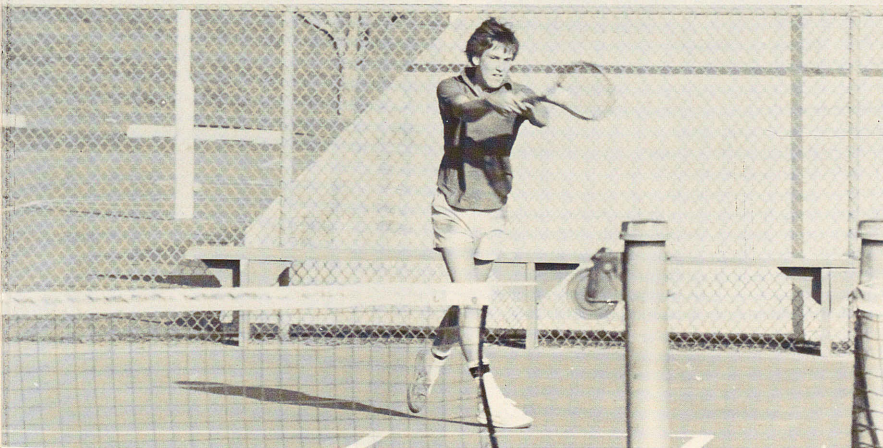

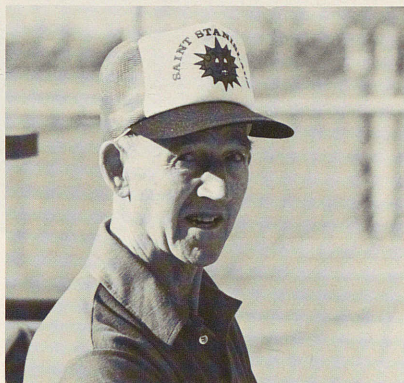

Strong performances were turned in this year by seniors Vincent Schott, "Breezy" Letellier, Gary Keel, and Russ Betcher. Outstanding performances were also turned in by Robert Boulet, Peter Watts, Charles Schutt, Sam Morse, and several other underclassmen.

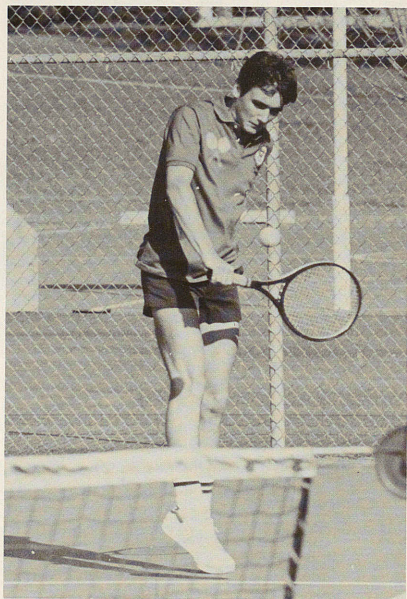

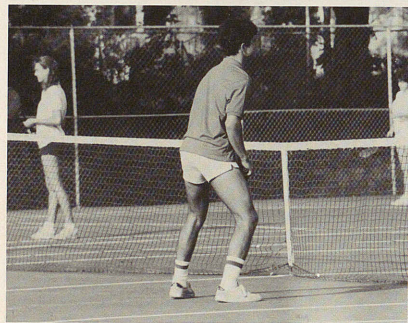

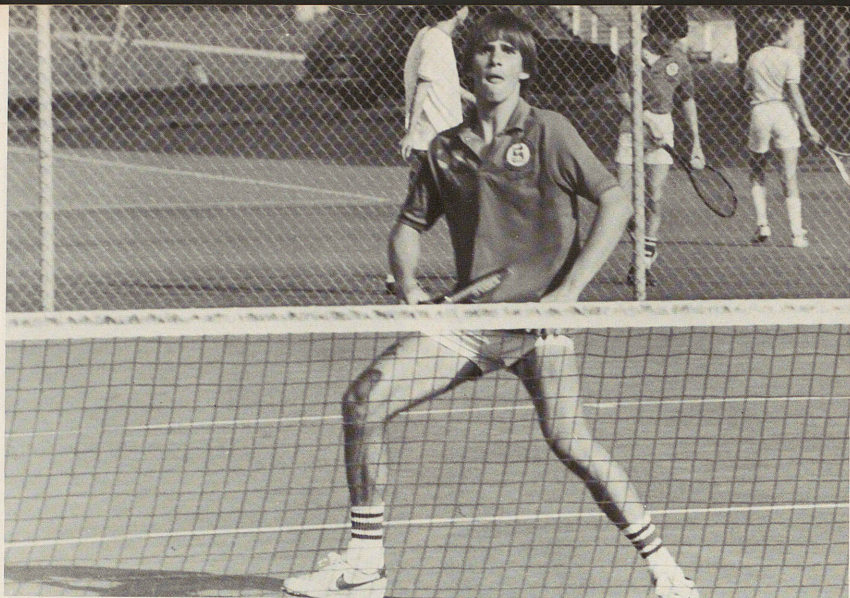

With a generous amount of youth on both the boys' and girls' teams, Brother Pascal is extremely optimistic about the 1985 tennis season.

Brother Neri's Dorm

Brother Neri's dorm is made up of 6th and 7th graders. It is filled with many fun activities, such as football, softball, and basketball. You can stay on weekends and visit the mall or go swimming or just play a game in the recreation hall. Sometimes we go to the beach or to a park. You can meet a lot of new friends. It is really fun to be with your friends and room with them. There is lots of groups to join like the Boy Scouts, Tennis team, Yearbook staff, and other groups. It is really pretty fun.

Brother Eduardo's Dorm

Like computers? Want to be a ham radio operator? Well, here's the place. Of course, there's a few obligations attached, such as two study halls a day, seven classes a day and boarding for nine months. But if you can handle all of that extracurricular work, then you can become a computer operator or a ham radio operator. Because this is the dorm of Brother Eduardo, computer expert and also the radio club moderator.

Brother Raymond's Dorm

An omnipresent entity to the fifty-two freshmen in his care, Brother Raymond listens to and attempts to assist his charges with their everyday problems. This is not to say he solves their every problem, but rather he helps them to accept the responsibility for their decisions. Brother believes, as does his assistant Brother Mitchell, in teaching by example. Believe it, there is no finer example of Christian love than Brother Raymond.

Brother William's Dorm

The Sophomore Dorm is run by Brother William Leimbach and his assistant, Brother Carl. It was Brother William's first year, and he did a pretty good job. He listened to all of our problems and difficulties. He was truly on our side. He did everything he could to make it a good year. He tried to balance our lives. We had to work, but we also got plenty of free time.

We are ready for next year. We will have a lot more freedom in Brother Joseph's Dorm, and we are ready to handle it. It was a good year, but it is time to move on.

Brother Joseph's Dorm

Given the problem, "Where on the SSC campus does tradition abound in the greatest quantities?" Answer — Brother Joseph's Dorm. From the beginning of saying the beads at 7:37 to lights out at 9:30, dorm life is bound by tradition.

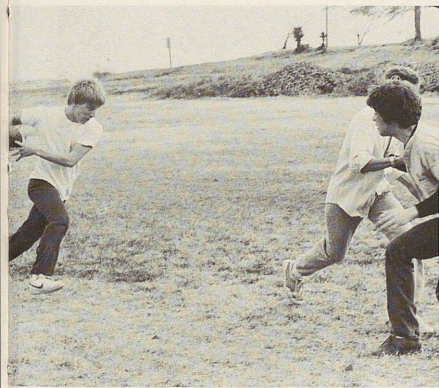

Why? Because tradition is consistent, and consistency is the key to success. Success measured not by the quietness of the dorm, not by the number of students on the Honor Roll, but success measured by the level of maturity, both mental and physical. Success measured against the standard of influence of Brother Joseph himself.

Students in the Senior Dorm are responsible mostly to themselves for their problems. Brother's influence appears when it becomes apparent that the student no longer can support this responsibility.

OPPOSITE PAGE, TOP: Each and every night, 7:37, the beads are said to begin the evening study period. Here Troy Lyons leads over the intercom. Tony Bowman and M. P. Dumesnil assist. BOTTOM: Mail from home is all important when you're a boarder. John Davis checks for his letters.

Senior Ski Party

As graduation week becomes no longer a dream, but a reality, the Senior Resident students gather together one last time for the Senior Ski Party.

Sponsored by the Senior Prefect, Brother Joseph Donovan, this is an annual event which has been enjoyed by many past graduates. The Seniors are taken to the Brother's Ski Camp, where they are treated to all the food they can eat and skiing, of course. Each and every Senior this year was able to ski, even those who had never tried it.

The outing is a gathering which forms an everlasting memory for each and every Senior.

Education — the process of providing and developing knowledge, training, or skill.

A St. Stanislaus education is much harder to define. It is a unique concept which cannot be expressed, clearly and concisely, in the words of a dictionary and which very few people are able to define. Those who can define it compose the Stanislaus family — the teachers, administrators, students, alumni, and others who contribute to the growth and continued realization of this truly effectual institution.

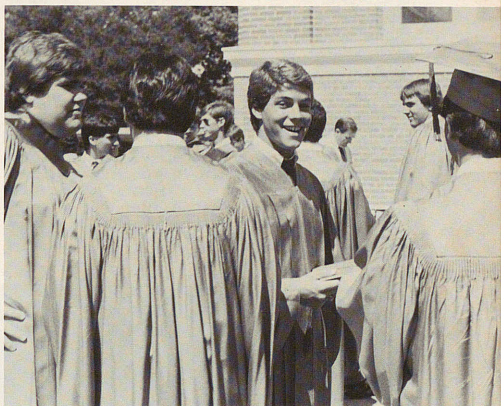

An institution such as Stanislaus is vital in today's decadent and decaying society. It not only teaches academics but instills within its students strong moral values. It stresses honesty and builds character. It teaches about life, how to cope with our problems, and how to interact with others. A Stanislaus education is consummate, complete, and will remain with the student forever.

Embossed on the rear cover of this book, the reader will find the Coat of Arms of the Brothers of the Sacred Heart. The following is a history of the Coat of Arms.

In 1887, Brother Norbert, Superior General of the Brothers of the Sacred Heart, judged that the time had arrived to devise a coat of arms for the Institute in conformity with the official title of Brothers of the Sacred Heart. To this end he consulted an expert in heraldry who designed a French shield bearing, on a gold field, a burning heart encircled by a crown of thorns, surmounted by a cross and emitting rays of light. In the heart was a gaping wound from which flowed drops of blood upon a terrestrial globe. Above the shield was extended a scroll which bore the motto "Mitis et Humilis."

The General Chapter of 1892 suppressed the rays of light and substituted as the motto "ametur Cor Jesu!" Such was the final evolution of the Coat of Arms which, in common language, reads as follows:

In the center of a gold field is a heart aflame, encircled with a crown of thorns and surmounted by a black Latin cross. From a gaping wound, drops of blood fall upon the northern segment of the terrestrial globe showing the coasts of France and America with the Atlantic ocean between. The scroll is in royal blue with a gold border and carries the motto in letters of gold. Heart, blood, thorns, flames, land and ocean: all are in natural colors.
